About Indore:

Indore is the commercial capital of the state of Madhya Pradesh. It is also known as "The City of Holkar's". The city was developed by Holkar queen Ahilya Bai, one of the famous queens of India. Indore has historic significance and is one of the major industrial cities in the state. It has become an education hub as it enjoys having several eminent educational institutions. The city contains both IIM (Indian Institute of Management) and IIT (Indian Institute of Technology).

Places of interest around Indore: Ujjain and Omkareshwar, Jyotir Lingas are located within 100 kms. of Indore. Maheshwar the first capital of Holkar's and Mandu, the once thriving socio-cultural centre, more popular for the romantic legend of Baz Bahadur and Rani Rupmati are located in the proximity of 100 kms.

About Sahityavithi 2020:

"Literature is where I go to explore the highest and lowest places in human society and in the human spirit, where I hope to find not absolute truth but the truth of the tale, of the imagination and of the heart."

- Salman Rushdie

Language and Literature are part of human expression, life, culture and history. Language generally represents literature. The use of English language teaching and literature helps in fostering the development of reading, writing, speaking, listening, and critical thinking skills. Research is an integral aspect of teaching and learning process. Teaching and research are considered as inevitable elements which can be inculcated for better understanding and dissemination of knowledge. Upgrading traditional methods with current technology and pedagogy have to cater to the diverse needs of the students and academic fraternity. English as a language to teach, has to have an outcome based approach to enhance not only the literary sensibility of the participants but also facilitate them to upgrade their language skills.

Teaching and learning language and literature at any moment bears the availability of literary texts and the likelihood that these texts are easily accessible to students who during the learning process should be taught how to analyze, evaluate and to understand these texts. Taking into considerations the impediments that are faced by English academicians today, as a result of waning interest in reading texts by students, the conference attempts to focus on the need to motivate students and highlight the role that technology and communication can play in this context. The deliberations will help to understand the fundamental changes that the use of new technologies has brought in literature and language with the development of multimedia with hypertext and e-books. The conference will give a platform to discuss how far the inclusion of digital technologies in the literature and language's curriculum can be helpful in upgrading the communication and English language skills.
